Lawyers request late painter's brain

TOKYO — Lawyers trying to prove the innocence of a late painter convicted of poisoning a dozen people in 1948 said Monday they are seeking a crucial but elusive piece of evidence: his brain.

Sadamichi Hirasawa, believed to have been the world's longest-serving death-row inmate, was sentenced to death in 1955 and died of pneumonia in a medical detention center near Tokyo in 1987 at the age of 95.

Lawyers working to clear his name say a fresh examination of his brain could yield evidence of disease-induced brain damage that would call into doubt his confession to the crime.

There was little evidence against Hirasawa, who confessed after long hours of interrogation to killing 12 people with potassium cyanide. He later recanted and pleaded innocent at trial.

Makoto Endo, a chief lawyer for the case, said the brain should be returned to the family under the autopsy preservation law.

Soon after Hirasawa's death, an autopsy on his brain was conducted at the University of Tokyo's medical school, which refused to release the results or return the brain, Endo said.

Lawyers will soon submit a written request to the university.

Hutu rebels kill 20, kidnap 7 nuns

KIGALI, Rwanda — Hutu rebels kidnapped seven nuns Monday and killed 20 civilians in two attacks, a military official said.

Capt. Peter Karimba, a military officer in Gisenyi, 60 miles northwest of Kigali, said 30 to 40 rebels attacked a church-run health center at 3 a.m., killing three civilians and taking seven nuns hostage.

Two hours later, 100 rebels attacked Kanama, 10 miles to the east, burning the local government building and killing 17 civilians, he said.

Six rebels were killed and eight Rwandan soldiers were injured in clashes that followed, Karimba said.

Ethnic factions kill 11 in Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan — Warring factions of a minority ethnic group terrorized an eastern neighborhood of Karachi Monday, killing 11 people and prompting many businesses to shut down.

Bands of gunmen roamed the streets targeting rival members of the Mohajir Qami Movement, a group that represents Indian Muslims who settled in Pakistan 51 years ago when the British gave the subcontinent its independence.

The movement split several years ago, and the two factions routinely clash. The biggest faction, led by exiled Altaf Hussein, is part of the coalition government ruling southern Sindh province, where Karachi is the capital.

The trouble Monday began when gunmen hidden in all-enveloping burqas worn by orthodox Muslim women opened fire on the office of the smaller, Haqiqi faction of the movement, police said.

Members of both factions were killed, and their leaders warned that there will be more bloodshed.

Home without phone burns, 6 die

BLANKS, La. — A rural home with no telephone and no nearby neighbors burned to the ground Monday in a fire that killed six children.

The boy and five girls, one of them a visiting godchild of the other youngsters' parents, ranged in age from 3 to 9.

The parents, awakened by the victims' screams, were treated for cuts to their hands and arms suffered while trying to save the children, said sheriff's Detective Willie Olind.

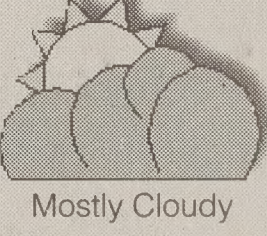

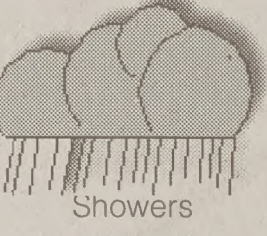

The family apparently did not have a telephone, and there are no nearby homes in the farming area 30 miles from Baton Rouge. The parents had to run to a nearby highway to flag down help, said Fire Chief Dale Bergeron.

"When we first got here, there was barely anything left," he said. Only a brick chimney was left standing.

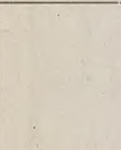

The fire broke out about 1 a.m., apparently in the children's bedroom, and investigators suspect it was started by a space heater, Bergeron said. Overnight temperatures were in the 40s.

Scripture of the Day

"For brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another."
— Galatians 5:13

Allison Ostler likes this scripture because "it shows we've been given so many blessings that we can't just keep it for ourselves. We have to share our blessings and serve others." Ostler, 18, is a freshman from Fremont, Calif., majoring in political science.

ARREST

they arrived at a private Saratov home for a meeting Wednesday evening.

"As they went in the door, they were hit on the head with a gun or something. Both of them have a bump on the head," Propst said. His son also injured a finger while trying to ward off the blows. The only other injuries, Propst said, are sore hands from the handcuffs their captors used.

Bennett said the U.S. State Department and the FBI were mobilized to help solve the case. "But the local police got onto this woman quickly enough that the Americans were not called upon," he said.

Bennett said it appeared that the two missionaries had been moved from place to place during their four days in captivity and then taken out to the countryside outside of Saratov and "dumped."

Why the captors aborted their plans and released the missionaries without a payoff was not immediately clear. But Bennett said U.S. officials speculate that the involvement of American and Russian authorities may have frightened the kidnappers.

OPEC

Goldstein figures the real number will be closer to 650,000 barrels — still a sizable amount of oil in a market that instantly shook off its bearish psychology.

Prices had been plunging ever since OPEC's decision in November to raise its official production ceiling by 10 percent. The decline also was attributed to lower demand from Asia's battered economies and the unusually mild winter in parts of the United States.

Now, U.S. motorists will likely see gasoline pump prices rise by 5 cents a gallon over the next few weeks, but that needs to be put in context, Goldstein said.

"Gasoline is down 18 to 20 cents a gallon versus a year ago," he said.

Plunging energy prices have been a boon for the American economy by restraining inflation to virtually nothing and softening the blow from Asia's financial troubles.

The Labor Department reported last week that energy prices skidded 2.2 percent in February, holding the overall increase in the Consumer Price Index to a scant 0.1 percent.

Y OPINION

The power of one

Many BYU students will be graduating next month and venturing out into the "real world." They will hear many words of encouragement between now and then, and some of the sentiments expressed may be a bit trite or cliché. One idea is worth repeating: One person can make a difference.

As people examine the events and movements that have shaped history, they very rarely see an amorphous group behind anything. Individuals with strong wills and lofty ideas — good or bad — have been the driving force. Granted, they have had supporters behind them, but the determination and plan was theirs.

This country is a result of such individuals. Abraham Lincoln kept America together in the face of civil war. Rosa Parks wouldn't move to the back of the bus. Joseph Smith restored the gospel of Jesus Christ and Brigham Young helped colonize the West.

Some have used their talents to further evil causes. Men like Hitler and Stalin used their strong convictions and considerable energy to murder millions. They stand as sobering reminders that one person can make a difference for evil.

In Tuesday's Devotional, Erlend D. Peterson, dean of Admissions and Records, told the story of Rigmor Heisto, a Norwegian member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Since retiring 11 years ago, she 1) earned a theology degree at Norway's most prestigious theological seminary; 2) initiated contacts with some of Norway's most noted educational and political leaders, many of whom have come to BYU and given lectures; 3) worked with the Norwegian Ministry of Education in developing a comparative religion course being taught in Norwegian high schools; 4) organized, edited and published a book on comparative religions that is now being used as a text in Norwegian public high schools; 5) got the "God Makers" video removed from all Christian bookstores in Norway; 6) proposed legislation to protect religions from having inaccurate information printed about them; and 8) helped hundreds of non-LDS Norwegian high school students research and write accurate papers about the LDS Church.

Business people like Stephen R. Covey and J. Willard Marriott have proven that one person can be enormously successful in a secular field without compromising the principles of the gospel.

Sigmund Freud's ideas about psychology and the inner self revolutionized psychiatry. Albert Einstein's theories on time and the universe still hold today. Louis Pasteur, Marie Curie, Thomas Edison — the list goes on and on. When these people were the age of BYU students, they may not have imagined anything great for their futures. And yet for whatever reason, they wound up accomplishing a great deal. Sometimes this was through talent, sometimes through sheer luck. But most of the time, it was due to good old-fashioned determination, willpower and courage. We should never underestimate the power of one.

Viewpoint

Genders equal in Islam

This is the second of three articles written to correct misconceptions about Islam by presenting the teachings of the Holy Qura'an, and of the prophet of Islam Muhammad, peace be upon him.

Islam degrades women

The image of the typical Muslim woman wearing the veil and being forced to stay home is all too common. "Not Without My Daughter" was a movie produced by Hollywood to enforce this image. It talked about an American woman who got married to an Iranian Muslim and went with him back to Iran. It showed that she was forced to wear the veil and was made to stay home with her daughter.

In fact, Islam gives men and women different roles, rights and responsibilities that are laid down in the Holy Qura'an and in the teachings of prophet Muhammad. Numerous verses of the Holy Qura'an make it clear that men and women are equal in the sight of God and that both men and women are expected to dress in a modest and dignified manner.

The Holy Qura'an, in addressing the believers, often uses the expression "believing men and women" to emphasize the equality of men and women. In fact, according to the teaching of Islam, the only thing that distinguishes people in the sight of God is their level of God-consciousness. "O mankind! We created you from a single soul, male and female, and made you into nations and tribes, so that you may come to know one another. Truly, the most honored of you in God's sight is the greatest of you in piety. God is All-knowing, All-aware" (Holy Qura'an 49:13). In another verse, God says: "O mankind! Reverence your Guardian-Lord, who created you from a single person, created, of like nature, his mate, and from this pair scattered (like seeds) countless men and women. Reverence God, through Whom you demand your mutual (rights), and reverence the wombs (that bore you); for Allah ever watches over you" (4:1).

Islamic law guaranteed rights to women more than 1,400 years ago — rights which women in America and Europe only obtained recently. For example, until the very beginning of the 20th Century, American and British women could not own property without the co-signature of their fathers or husbands, nor could they participate in the political arena. On the other hand, Islam has given Muslim women the right to own property, operate a business, receive equal pay for equal work, have total control of their wealth and to participate fully in the political, religious and scientific fields. Prophet Muhammad said: "Women are the twin halves of men."

Violence and abuse of any kind toward women is completely prohibited. The Holy Qura'an states: "And among His signs is this, that He created for you mates from among yourselves, that you may dwell in tranquillity with them; and His has put love and mercy between you. Verily it is that are signs for those who reflect." Prophet Muhammad said: "The most perfect in faith amongst the believers is he who is best in manner and kindest to his wife."

by Abdu Alahwal

Muslims worship a different god
First of all, Muslims believe that there is only one God who created this universe and everything living.

The incorrect idea that Muslims worship a different God might be due to the fact that Muslims refer to God as "Allah." In actuality, Muslims worship the God of Adam, Noah, Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, David, Solomon, Moses, Jesus and Muhammad, peace and blessings of God be upon them all.

This is the same God that the Jews and Christians worship and believe in. The word "Allah" is simply the Arabic word for God and it is the same word that Jews, in Hebrew, use for God, the same word that Jesus used when he prayed to God. Even though Muslims, Jews and Christians believe in the same God, their concepts about him differ. For example, Muslims reject the idea of the Holy Trinity or that God has become "incarnated" in the world. Islam teaches an absolute monotheism. Let the Holy Qura'an describe him to us: "Say (O Muhammad): He is Allah, the One; Allah the eternal, absolute; He begetteth not, nor is He begotten; and there is none like unto Him" (112:1-4).

Hypnotism wrong

Catherine Sawaya
Orem

Last week as I was running up the six flights of stairs in the Tanner Building, I was frustrated to see an advertisement for a hypnotist hanging on one of the bulletin boards. I feel very strongly that participating in hypnotism in any form, including as a spectator, is completely against the basic principles of the gospel, as well as the morals encouraged here at BYU.

As I've wandered around campus this past week, I have been upset by the number of these advertisements that are around campus on BYU-approved bulletin boards.

One of the great blessings of BYU is the absence of these wicked practices.

We have been cautioned several times by general authorities to avoid this practice. President Francis M. Lyman, who was president of the Council of the Twelve from 1903-1916, said, "Hypnotism is a reality, and though some who claim to have this mysterious power are only tricksters, yet others do really hypnotize those that submit to them. From what I understand and have seen, I should advise you not to practice hypnotism."

"For my own part I could never consent to being hypnotized or allowing my children to be. The free agency that the Lord has given us is the choicest gift we have. As soon, however, as we permit another mind to control us, as that mind controls its own body and functions, we have completely surrendered our free agency to another; and so long as we are in the hypnotic spell, (and that is as long as the hypnotist desires us to be) we give no consent in any sense whatever to anything we do."

"The hypnotist might influence us to do good things, but we could receive no benefit from that, even if we remembered it after coming out of the spell, for it was not done voluntarily. The hypnotist might also influence us to do absurd and even shocking, wicked things, for his will compels us" (Era, vol. 6, p. 420).

Samantha Peterson

In defense of the beautiful state of Utah and its nationally acclaimed NBA team, the Jazz, we say that supporting the state team in no way compromises the diversity of BYU campus.

It is ignorant and narrow-minded to insist that the university newspaper cater to one's personal preferences.

BYU is in the state of Utah, and as has been kindly pointed out, half of the student body calls Utah home. It logically follows that The Daily Universe would publish news pertinent to its audience.

If you're so attached to the Bulls, move to Chicago.

We say, "When in Rome, wear a toga."

PS: If you really need to keep track of Golden State's losses, go home and watch SportsCenter.

Joke inappropriate

Brook Heaton
Dumfries, Va.

I was shocked and appalled to see the picture that ran on the front page Wednesday. The caption seemed to portray the idea that it is perfectly OK to dress up the Brigham Young statue in leprechaun regalia.

Have we forgotten that this great man was not only the founder of our university, but a prophet of God? The very idea of defacing a statue in the manner shown sickens and disgusts me. It is a mockery to Brigham Young, the university and the church.

I doubt that people would find it amusing if the Christus statue in the Temple Square Visitor's Center was adorned with shamrocks and Lucky Charms boxes.

I hope this kind of thing never takes place again.

If it does, I hope that The Daily Universe has the courage to omit it from the newspaper.

Use the AP

Ryan Phillips
La Habra Heights, Calif

I was very confused after reading the letter on the March 17 opinion page calling for more writing from The Daily Universe staff writers and less copy from the AP.

I, like the writer of that letter (and like most college students), am genuinely curious about what is happening in the outside world. To say the staff of The Daily Universe doesn't share that interest is simply an unfair statement. The writer somehow seemed to think that we will be better informed on world events if we take fewer stories off the AP wire and instead let the staff of The Daily Universe cover the issues.

I would much rather read the reports off the AP wire. They are written by professional journalists who are actually in the field, interviewing world leaders, attending press conferences, etc. There are many great writers here at The Daily Universe, but how can someone who is secluded here in Provo possibly give us better information about world events than what is available through the AP wire?

The only way Daily Universe staff writers can gain information is by watching the news, reading AP reports, or by searching the Internet. I think that by including AP wire reports The Daily Universe is increasing its credibility and applicability! Relying more on college students with limited access to information on world events would have the opposite effect.

Our brothers and sisters

Ginny Watts
Sandy

I think the Def Leppard team has a good point. They may be a little extreme, but at least they want to have FUN.

Whatever happened to having fun in intramural sports? Isn't that one of the purposes of having intramurals, to have fun and compete? That is why I play sports, and same goes for my teammates. We are playing intramural basketball, and I think some people take it way too seriously. One of our games began with a prayer asking for good sportsmanship and ended with a technical foul and red card when the game turned into an aggressive battle for blood. I would much rather play a team that wants to have fun than a team that swears and takes aggression to an extreme just to win a game.

I am a competitive player and like competition, but as members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, we have covenanted to take upon us the name of Christ. May we remember that those whom we play against are our brothers and sisters, and in the end it will not matter who won or lost, but how the game was played.

'80s illiterate

Charles D. Ballard
Mesa, Ariz.

While reading the review of the movie "The Wedding Singer," I came across an error. I quote: "This movie is directed by those who wish ... flocks of ... soared." At first I thought this was made only by one of the authors, editors and who know others. I came to the conclusion that the Universe staff are true.

So, for those of us who remember from a different perspective, when Drew Barrymore was a bratty adult, (as opposed to a bratty adult), John Hughes and "The Brat" saw the "Star Wars" trilogy screen when each was FIRST and remember it! Who remember Thompson Twins were "new wave" "retro," who remember every Duke of Hazzard" but would not watch it, who remember an alternative fuel but a way of music, who, when speaking of could be referring to either a singing Berlin or an album by Pink remember when CNN reported HBO showed movies and MTV videos, who remember when Iraq and Russia was an enemy, who U.S.S.R. and not Russia, who George Bush's lips and vote remember when "no one will be than a mega-byte."

For those of us who remember Debbie Gibson, Tiffany and M... still occasionally lose our appeal offer this tidbit of knowledge: Seagulls" was the 1980's new "The Eagles" were the 1970's group.

Varsity dates are

Teresa Chandler

I am often ridiculed because date activity is going to the Varsity Theatre. After seeing "My Best Friend's Wedding" last semester, I went with a date to Varsity Theatre every week.

For those who won't take date activity to the Varsity Theatre, I'd like to share with you what you are missing.

First, the theater suits student body proximity allows people to avoid the experience of riding in a car. "The Midnight Movie" on p... also more fascinating than three in the morning. People go to movie and still afford to buy food for dinner.

else can turn a construction yard, a shopping mall and an oversized Tonka truck into a martial arts playground?

There is no character development to speak of, at least not in English. But, hey, who goes to a Jackie Chan flick for its poignant drama? Sure, there are a few serious complete sentences, like "now we have enough evidence to put these guys away for life," but they only add to the humor of the dialogue. But let's talk action.

"Mr. Nice Guy" is a martial arts masterpiece full of fist fights, flying food and smashing furniture. The high-speed carriage chase, dizzying maze and blimp ride enhance the comic-book flavor of the film.

Only Jackie Chan can create so many new ways to whip-up on the bad boys. The choreography is brilliant and the stunt work purely amazing.

For loyal Jackie Chan followers, this film is a must-see addition to his extensive movie repertoire.

BYU captain Romaine Marshall anticipates a hit in a Feb. 14 game at Helaman Halls Field against Utah. Marshall had to miss the game against ISU because of an altercation against Utah.

Rugby team blows out ISU

By STEVE SHAW

shaw@du2.byu.edu
Universe Sports Writer

The BYU rugby team just keeps on rolling.

After defeating in-state rival Utah in Provo last week, the Cougars faced Idaho State in Pocatello and easily defeated the Bengals 65-0.

Using the speed and mobility of his players, head coach Dave Smyth devised a plan to combat the bigger and more physical players of Idaho State.

"ISU is bigger than us and wanted to bang heads. We used our speed and quickness to our advantage," Smyth said.

"We knew we couldn't beat them with their size," said senior Brian Rowe.

The strategy worked wonders, as the Cougars scored within the first five minutes of the half and never looked back.

The score was 31-0 at halftime, and the Cougars more than doubled that score by the end of the match.

Smyth was particularly impressed with the play of his forwards. Six of the Cougars' tries were scored by forwards.

"They linked well and ran hard," Smyth said. "Our strategy was to run the ball and move the ball without standing around. They did well."

Perhaps the player of the game was Rowe, known as "Vinny" among his friends and teammates. Rowe scored four tries for the Cougars and was a key to the performance of the forwards.

"Brian was definitely the man of the game. He has put a lot of effort into the game of rugby and it really shows," Smyth said.

"It was being in the right place at the right time," Rowe said. "Our backs ran real well, and I was just open for all of the passes."

Junior David Wheeler had another great game as he collected four assists on Rowe's scores.

BYU had to use some of its reserves in the match because of injuries and the one-match suspension of team captain Romaine Marshall for an incident in the Utah match.

The reserves were up to the challenge and played exceptionally well, scoring two tries in the match.

"Our J.V. guys came in and did real well," Rowe said.

The Cougars hope to maintain this kind of play as they wrap up the regular season with a home match versus Weber State Saturday at 1 p.m. on the Helaman Halls Field.

Y swimmer finishes year at nationals

By KAREN DUFFIN

karen@du2.byu.edu
Universe Sports Writer

It has been a long and distinguished career for Sarah McKeever, BYU's only competitor at last weekend's NCAA Swimming and Diving National championships.

Although she finished this year well behind last year's second team All-American win, McKeever has nothing to feel bad about. In a year that resulted in many victories, McKeever lived up to a reputation that brought her to BYU as one of the swim team's fastest recruits ever.

McKeever has not been found far from a pool since the beginning of her swimming career more than 10 years ago. She has been making waves ever since her father introduced her to a swimming pool at a young age.

McKeever enjoyed swimming so much that a family friend recommended putting Sarah on the high school club team. Nine trips to Junior Nationals and a second team All-American honor later, McKeever is a college competitor to be reckoned with. McKeever said curiosity has kept her going all these years.

"I kept swimming because I was curious about where I could go with it. I liked it because it was something I was always good at," McKeever said.

It was something stronger than curiosity that brought her to BYU as one of its top recruits ever. And certainly it was her determination and sheer talent that took her to three NCAA national championship meets.

"Sarah is one of our fastest recruits ever. She has been a steady trainer, very consistent," said Stan Crump, BYU head swimming coach.

Besides being BYU's top swimmer, McKeever has also shouldered the responsibilities of acting as the team captain.

The job carries an added emotional burden as she is asked to help resolve conflict, act as a mentor to incoming freshmen and be the team leader both in and out of the water.

When the team leader was asked what happened at this year's nationals, McKeever was quick to not make any excuses for herself.

"I don't know what happened. It was highly competitive — faster than last year. I felt as prepared as last year. I am just trying to decide what happened," McKeever said.

However, Crump had several possible reasons for the disappointing finish.

He said McKeever was on antibiotics and wasn't quite up to par physically. This year's meet was faster than last year, with several American records set. And, while she had a teammate with her last year, McKeever was BYU's only competitor this year.

All of these factors and some unknown added up to a finish not up to McKeever's potential.

"There are a million reasons and no reasons," Crump said.

Despite this meet, Crump is quick to add that McKeever's career is not over yet.

"It was just one bad meet. No athlete goes through their career without that. The beauty of athletics is that it teaches you to be a good winner and a good loser," Crump said.

NFL to return to Cleveland

Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. — The NFL approved an expansion team for Cleveland on Monday, returning the Browns to the field in 1999 in an unprecedented move that restores one of football's storied franchises.

With unanimous support from owners, the league will expand to 31 teams for the 1999 season, keeping its commitment to put a club in Cleveland after the Browns moved to Baltimore after the 1995 season.

The Browns will return to the AFC Central, playing their first exhibition game against Dallas in the Hall of Fame game in Canton, Ohio, next year. The first regular season game is supposed to be played on Aug. 21, 1999 in a new stadium being built on the same site as old Cleveland Stadium, which was torn down after the move.

The $247 million, 72,000-seat stadium is expected to be completed in time for the Browns' first game.

NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue also announced that the league hired Joe Mack as player personnel director of the Browns.

Mack held that position with the Washington Redskins from 1989-94 and helped build the Carolina Panthers expansion team as assistant general manager in 1994.

The swift approval came as a surprise because a few owners, including Jerry Jones of the Cowboys, were apparently not sold on expansion. Panthers owner Jerry Richardson, who toured Cleveland's new stadium recently, was one of the owners who made a strong pitch for expansion at the meeting.

"It was partly what we saw in Cleveland, that the stadium is becoming a reality," Tagliabue said. "Partly, it was our conversations with the mayor and how the fans feel and their desire for an expansion team."

Four of four BYU wrestlers in the NCAA finals last week were going a little rough. John Kelly at 126 was able to get a win out of

Joey Coughran of California at 136 of the first wrestled Eric Jetton of Wisconsin, where he lost to the No. 1 seed-had the opportunity to win to his next match on against Carl Perry of Illinois. Kelly lost to the match, 12-10.

Owners vote to reopen labor agreement

Associated Press

Owners voted overwhelmingly to end the labor agreement with the union Monday, and commissioners called for immediate action.

The contract will expire at the end of the 2000-01 season. A new agreement isn't a lockout could vote by the Board of Directors which took place at a meeting at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport, does not affect to have a successor contract by the time the current one expires," NBA Commissioner Russ Granik said. The league's revenue has been strong, player salaries rising much faster than the result, the league is profitable.

It's the only major U.S. pro sport that has never lost a game to a Sophomore Jose Enriquez suffered two straight losses and was out of the tournament early.

Enriquez faced the No. 1 seed at 118 pounds, David Morgan of Michigan State University. Morgan took the match 10-2.

Enriquez next faced Tom Combes of Eastern Illinois. Enriquez lost the match 6-4.

Sophomore Brett Gappmayer wrestled at 158. He faced 10th-seeded Matt Suter of Arizona State University and lost 5-1. He lost his second match to Bill Zeman of Illinois.

Freshman Chris Miller wrestled at Heavyweight and lost his first match to J.R. Plenis, from the University of Nebraska, 5-2.

Miller was then eliminated from the tournament by Derrick Del Porto of Slippery Rock University.

It was a tough tournament for the Cougars. But wrestling coach Mark Schultz felt it was a good way for these wrestlers to get some exposure to high level competition.

"It was a good experience for them. They're all really young and it was good for them to get an idea of what to expect for next year. It's a whole other level when you get up there," Schultz said.

The wrestling team is young. There are only four upperclassmen on the team and only one of those is a senior. Because of its youth, the team has the potential to be deep next year.

Freshmen Miller and Collin Robertson, along with sophomore Enriquez, all wrestled well this season, giving the team a strong foundation to work from next year.

percent of arena capacity with the same strong TV ratings it had last season. But player salaries are growing faster than revenues.

Without specifically saying the words "hard salary cap," they said the "most important item" they want in a new agreement is a system in which a defined percentage of revenues is earmarked for player salaries.

Granik said the league expects to begin negotiations with the players union on April 1. He added the league will provide the union with financial information documenting the unprofitability.

If a new agreement can't be reached and a lockout is imposed, it would bring a halt to all player signings, free agent movement and summer leagues and would prevent teams from having any contact with their players.

Fly-fishermen teach others how to tie flies

For many fishermen, spring marks the beginning of the fly fishing season. Expert fly-tier Wade Bodell and his sons gave free fly-tying demonstrations at the Orem City Library Saturday to help beginners start off on the right foot.

"It is a very easy sport to learn and very easy to master," Bodell said. He gets many of his materials from animals he hunts, such as pheasants and geese. Occasionally, he will also take fur from an animal that has been killed on the highway. "You can tie ties with everything from feathers to burlap and rubber bands," Bodell said. The materials Bodell used to tie ties at the demonstration included hooks, thread and colorful feathers from a variety of birds.

Bodell's son, Stuart, said a fisherman doesn't have to be an expert fly-tier in order to catch fish. "If you basically imitate a fly, it is going to work," Stuart said. "The fish don't care. They don't look for how many legs are on the fly; they mostly look for color and size."

Stuart said fly-fishing can also be hard work. "It can get frustrating at times. Each river is different."

The biggest difference occurs in how heavily a river is fished.

"Definitely, by far, the Provo River receives the most pressure (from fishermen)," said Scott Root, information manager for the State Wildlife and Resources Division. "But people are still able to catch plenty of fish."

But no matter what river he brings his sons to, he enjoys himself, Bodell said.

"I enjoy nature. I enjoy getting out and away from the stress of the cities," Bodell said. "I just enjoy the sport."

Land auctions earn money for Utah schools

By JARED G. JONES

Public land auctions earned more than $1 million for Utah schools in March. The Trust Lands Administration sold more than 2,380 acres of land in various parts of Utah for about $430 an acre.

Dave Herbertson of the TLA said he was very pleased with the sale and that $430 per acre was an excellent price.

"This is undeveloped land, and many people think they can purchase it for $1 an acre. This was not the case with this sale," Herbertson said.

For example, a $1,200 bid was given for land at the base of Boulder Mountain near Torrey, Wayne County. The 40-acre area sold for $190,000.

The success of the sale can be attributed, in part, to how it was held, Herbertson said.

Previously, sales were held in the community closest to where the advertised property was located. For the past three auctions, the TLA held auctions in Salt Lake City for land located throughout the state.

"This new method brings in a (higher) number of people," Herbertson said.

Lands managed by the TLA are sold to create a perpetual fund for Utah schools grades K through 12, and 11 other beneficiaries. Organizations such as the Utah State Hospital, the Utah School for the Deaf and a fund for public buildings are other groups that benefit from TLA funds.

Revenues from land auctions are turned over to the state treasurer. The office of the treasurer then invests the money in stocks and bonds. Recent legislation allows the treasurer to invest as much as 65 percent of the funds in equities or mutual funds and up to 35 percent in bonds.

Now that more money can be invested in stocks, it means a higher return on money for the trust beneficiaries, said Richard Ellis, chief deputy of the State Treasurer's Office. Equities earned 23 percent annually while bonds earned 6.2 percent over the same period.

Even though stocks and mutual funds contain a greater element of risk, they are worth it in the long run, Ellis said.

"Because this is a permanent fund, we can look at things in the long term. Over 15, 20 and even 70 years, stocks (perform better than) bonds, and we will come out ahead in the long run," Ellis said.

After the money is invested by the treasurer, the trust beneficiaries receive the generated interest. The interest came to $141 million last year, with schools receiving $130 million of that fund.

For schools, the money goes into the Office of Education's general fund that it can be used as needed, said O'Hara of the Office of Finance. Other beneficiaries use funds as they need.

The TLA has another auction planned for May 8. Herbertson expects revenues since the March auction.
